

Wind in the Basement

Try not to close the door to the basement completely shut.

One day a wind will come to swing it open again.

What is behind the door may be more valuable than what is before it.

So, be careful what you store down there.

Visit now and then and check the inventory.

I put a toy soldier down there once.

He came back with guns blazing looking for me.

When I apologized for sending him away,

he shot me right through the heart.

Just as well really,

I wasn't doing too well without him.

And this hole in my heart ?

I'm just going to let the wind blow through it.
